On the 1st day of the month of June 1864
I received from the Hon. Secy of the Interior a letter of the 28th inst. in relation to the application of the Hopewell Indians for land in the State of Ohio. The letter was forwarded to the Hon. Secy of the War Department for his consideration. The Hon. Secy of the War Department has advised that the application of the Hopewell Indians for land in the State of Ohio is not a matter of public interest

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the principles of the theory of the structure of the human mind. It is shown that the mind is a complex system of interacting elements, and that the structure of the mind is determined by the nature of these elements and the way in which they interact. The author then proceeds to a detailed analysis of the various elements of the mind, and shows how they are organized into a coherent system. The final part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the implications of the theory for the study of the human mind.
